Professor also wrote a paper in which he argued that Americans should be grateful to veterans

Authors

Stephen Kershner
Fredonia State University

Abstract

Americans are very grateful to veterans. Veterans are celebrated via speeches, statues, memorials, holidays, and affirmative action. They are lavishly praised in public gatherings and private conversations. Contrary to this widespread attitude, I argue that U.S. citizens should not be very grateful to veterans. In evaluating whether the significant gratitude toward veterans is justified, I begin by exploring the nature of gratitude. On my account, one person should be very grateful to a second person just in case the second person reasonably attempted to provide a significant benefit to the first and was primarily motivated by concern for the first's well-being. I then look at whether veterans typically satisfy these conditions and argue that they do not.

It just keeps getting worse

Authors

Abstract

Nonforcible adult-child sex is thought to be morally wrong in part because it is nonconsensual. In this paper, I argue against this notion. In particular, I reject accounts of the moral wrongfulness of adult-child sex that rest on the absence of consent, concerns about adult exploitation of children, and the existence of a morally primitive duty against such sex.

He suggests that we don't know if sex with a minor is good or bad, so therefore it shouldn't be banned or condemned

Professor Stephen Kershner suggests sex with a minor might only be harmful because of the way society reacts to it and not because of the actual act

BREAKING: The University which employs this professor just released this statement:

SUNY Fredonia @FredoniaU · 3m
A message from SUNY Fredonia President Stephen H. Kolison

SUNY Fredonia is aware of a video posted online involving one of its professors. The views expressed by the professor are reprehensible and do not represent the values of SUNY Fredonia in any way, shape or form. They are solely the professor's views. The matter is being reviewed.

A Liberal Argument for Slavery

Stephen Kershnar

In this paper, I argue that state recognition and enforcement of slavery contracts is consistent with the value of autonomy and with liberalism. By "liberalism" I mean the notion that unjust harm to others (and perhaps pejorative exploitation) is a good reason, and the only good reason, for state coercion. My strategy is to show that formation and enforcement of a slavery contract does not necessarily infringe upon anyone's moral rights or lead to pejorative exploitation and hence may not be disallowed on liberal grounds. This argument thus challenges the compatibility of liberalism and the current international ban on slavery at least insofar as the ban rests on considerations of justice.
